Subject: Response to the Change Request (Feb. 4, 2006) for the BCD Operation and Availability section

Preamble

This is the CCB response to the proposed changes to apply to the Operation and Availability sections of the Dec. 2005 version of GDE ILC Baseline Configuration Document [1]. CCB received the change request from T.Himel on February 4, 2006 (Appendix 1 and [2]) and CCB forwarded it to GDE the same day [3]. This Change Request was treated as Class-0. S.Mishra was assigned as the CCB reviewer. Note: This change has been submitted in response to the “request for the editorial work” issued by the CCB chair [4] who is attempting to regulate the formatting of BCD in the hope of making the editorial and change tracking easier .

Summary

CCB accepts this change request as is. The “Operation and Availability” section of the “Latest official version of BCD” (ops.12dec2005.doc) has been replaced by a new version ops.04feb2006.doc.

CCB has to acknowledge that the exact formatting of the MSWord version is currently still under discussion [5]. However, CCB considers that this editorial update to the Operation and Availability Section constitutes a welcome improvement of the readability (and “editability”) of BCD, and, thus, has decided to incorporate it in the latest BCD section set.

Appendix 1

- Subject: [CCB-123] changes to operations and availability section

This is a class 0 CCB request.

Summary of changes:

As requested by Nobu, I have taken the Word version and formatted it according to the CCBs specifications.

Details of changes:

Changed the font sizes of the headings to those specified.

I have made the subsection headings italic as the difference between section (18 pts) and subsection (16 pt) fonts was not apparent. All chapter, section, subsection headings are in bold.

Changed the revision date at the top (but not in the footer, the CCB can change that if they like)

Increased the size of the pie charts in figures 1 and 2 back to their original size so the text that labels the slices can be read.

Put table 1 back into landscape so its text is large enough to read. Also this put its caption on the same page rather than the next page (which is where the CCB editor left it). Also, this table was anchored in some way to a fixed part of the page. That made text creep under it when I changed the font sizes. I got rid of that anchoring so the table position will move if major text editing is done.

Somehow during my editing, the footer added by the CCB disappeared. I added it back in, hopefully correctly.

I have left the two blank pages at the end that were added by the CCB. I assume they must be wanted for some reason. If not, then please delete them before saving it to the Wiki.

I have made absolutely no changes to the content (at least not intentionally).
